About Lunar New Year (Description by National Museum of Asian Art):

Also known as the Spring Festival in China, Lunar New Year is a fifteen-day celebration marked by many traditions and celebrated in a variety of countries and cultures, including Korea, Vietnam, Taiwan, and Mongolia. A highlight that often kicks off the holiday is the Lunar New Year's Eve reunion dinner. It is a feast with a spread of symbolic dishes representing abundance, all of which are said to bring good luck and fortune. The fifteenth and final day of the holiday is sometimes marked by eating tangyuan, sweet glutinous rice balls, and carrying lanterns to conclude the celebration.
