

Permission to Use Course Work for Research Purposes

In Stacy Jazán's Spanish 101 class (Fall 2010) you will be involved in a variety of learning activities, including small group work, class discussions, online homework and/or activities, and formal writing assignments.

My goal is to better understand how students learn in my class. It is likely that some aspects of this project will be presented or published in the future. In keeping with ethical standards for research, I am requesting your written permission to include excerpts of your course work, both written and online, for future presentations and publication purposes.

It is perfectly acceptable not to grant permission to use your work in this way, and I assure you that your decision will not adversely affect my opinion of you or your grade in the class. You may change your mind and withdraw your permission without explanation up to and including the last day of the semester.

Please sign and return this form.

I give permission to use portions of my course work for publication and presentation purposes as long as the written material does not include information that will identify me individually.

Name: (please print) _____

Signature: _____

Date: _____

I DO NOT give my permission to use portions of my course work for publication and presentation purposes.

Name: (please print) _____

Signature: _____

Date: _____